HOUSE BILL NO. 1433

AN ACT
STRENGTHENING THE COMMISSION ON HUMAN RIGHTS OF THE
PHILIPPINES AS THE NATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS INSTITUTION, AND FOR OTHER PURPOSES

EXPLANATORY NOTE

It is a declared policy of the State to promote, protect and uphold human rights as mandated by Article XIII, Section 1 of the Constitution, which reads:

Section 1. The Congress shall give highest priority to the enactment of the measures that protect and enhance the right of all the people to human dignity, reduce social, economic, and political inequalities, and remove cultural inequities by equitably diffusing wealth and political power for the common good.

Harmonious to this State Policy, the 1987 Constitution established the Commission on Human Rights (CHR), later enacted into law by virtue of Executive Order No. 163, with the mandate to promote and protect human rights of all Filipinos, including those overseas. Specific powers and functions of the CHR are set forth in Article XVIII on Social Justice and Human Rights. These include the core functions of investigation, monitoring, and education.

As a constitutional creation, the CHR is the national human rights institution (NHRI) of the Philippines. As such, it performs the important role of linking human rights norms, international in character, to the level of domestic implementation. Through its advisory function as NHRI, as outlined in the United Nations Principles on the Status of National Human Rights Institution, it can issue recommendations and guidelines on the implementation of commitments of the Philippines in treaties it has ratified, including their Optional Protocols. For example, the Philippines is State Party to the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of all forms of Discrimination Against Women (CEDAW). This treaty provides for the equal application of all human rights to women and identifies the measures by which it shall be complied. The CHR has developed Advisories on various issues and thematic concerns covered by the CEDAW, and these include the passage of then Reproductive Health Bill, including the wearing of Hijab<sup>1</sup> which was lauded by both the Philippine Commission on Women<sup>2</sup> and the Department of Foreign Affairs for addressing deeply entrenched religious prejudices in society.

The CHR has consistently worked towards the better understanding of UN Special Procedures and the importance of Optional Protocols. In 2012, the CHR has participated in the Country Inquiry of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination Against Women on Manila's EO No. 003. It has also engaged with the Special Rapporteur on Trafficking Against Persons, presenting its work with the Southeast Asia NHRI Forum.

Over the years, the CHR has proven its exemplary work as a cornerstone of human rights in the country. This has been affirmed by the Supreme Court itself in Edita T. Burgos v. Gen. Hemogenes Esperon et.al., whereby the Court expressly commended the efforts of CHR in the investigation of the disappearance of Jonas Joseph Burgos. The ruling provides, “[i]n the present case, while Jonas remains missing, the series of calculated directives issued by the Court outlined above and the extraordinary diligence the CHR demonstrated in its investigations resulted in the criminal prosecution of Lt. Baliaga. x x x.”<sup>3</sup> The CHR has also made submissions in cases pertaining to discrimination of sectoral minorities as for example, individuals with diverse sexual orientation and gender identity. Recently, it has also made submissions on the issue of citizenship of foundlings, underscoring the best interest of the child principle of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child.

In addition to the Constitution and E.O. No. 163, various laws were later enacted granting additional special mandates to the CHR. Currently, there are twelve (12) such laws<sup>4</sup>. Foremost of these are R.A. No. 9710 or the Magna Carta of Women Act of 2009 which delegates to CHR the powers of Gender and Development Ombud, and R.A. No. 9344 or the Juvenile Justice and Welfare Act of 2006 which names the CHR as Child Ombudsman.

The work and accomplishments of the CHR, thus far, cannot be fully presented in this explanatory note. With almost forty (40) years in existence, the CHR has served countless Filipinos through its programs and services. Notwithstanding these accomplishments, the CHR also has to occasionally address institutional challenges in terms of resources and extent of its mandate.

It is worth noting that the need to strengthen the CHR is often raised in important forums, domestic and overseas. In its consideration of the 2016 Philippine State Report, the United Nations Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights made the following recommendation for the CHR, viz.: “[t]he Committee urges the State party to expedite the discussion and adoption of the Commission on Human Rights Charter (Senate Bill No. 2818 for an Act Strengthening the Functional and Structural Organization of the Commission on Human Rights and for Other Purposes) to ensure full compliance with the Paris Principles on national institutions for the promotion and protection of human rights.”<sup>5</sup>

In recent proceedings, other UN bodies have also spoken on the need to strengthen the CHR as an organization. In its 2014 Report on the 2012 country Inquiry of the Philippines regarding Executive Order No. 003 on Family Planning by then Manila City Mayor Lito Atienza, the Committee on Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women, made the recommendation for the CHR, viz.: “...provide the Commission with adequate financial, human and technical resources to ensure that it can effectively discharge its current and additional functions; and take all necessary measures to ensure its full financial autonomy.”<sup>6</sup> Likewise, the UN Committee on the Rights of the Child, in its review of the Philippines’ 3rd and 4th combined reports, included the following recommendation in its Concluding Observations, viz.: “The Committee also recommends that the State party support the prompt passing of the CHRP Charter that is awaiting approval by Congress to strengthen the protection and promotion of children’s rights.”<sup>7</sup> Finally, in the last Universal Periodic Review of the UN Human Rights Council for the 2nd cycle reporting of the Philippines, the following recommendations were made by foreign governments viz.: “Further consolidate its national human rights infrastructure, including support to the Commission on Human Rights (Egypt); Continue to improve its capacity to uphold human rights, including by increasing the Commission on Human Rights’ (CHR) fiscal autonomy and organizational capacity, as well as further efforts to prevent human rights violations by Armed Forces of the Philippines and Philippines National Police personnel (Australia); Continue the work to build-up the capacity in the area of human rights protection, including through strengthening the national human rights institution (Russian Federation); Intensify the efforts and measures to consolidate the state of law and its national mechanisms on human rights (Viet Nam)”.<sup>8</sup>

To empower the CHR as an institution through a Charter will therefore not only reinforce the recommendations and recognition of its contribution to safeguard fundamental rights and freedom but will serve the higher purpose of institutionalization of treaty commitments by the Philippine government.

It is not uncommon that popular opinion may not fully appreciate the status of the CHR as the highest government machinery in the protection of human rights. The CHR is a partner of security forces in human rights education, the legislative department in rights-based approach to law-making, the judiciary in evolving breaches of human security through enforced disappearance, and intermediary between government and civil society. The CHR Charter will help bridge the disconnect between the unpopular opinion against human rights defenders and the importance of the role the CHR plays in our modern society.

The necessity of the CHR Charter cannot be understated in light of ongoing threats to the protection of human rights in the country in the form of blatant violations such as extrajudicial killings (EJKs) and the lack of mechanisms and programs that protect social and economic rights. In the 17th Congress, a similar bill (SBN-1230) was filed by my former office in the Senate.

This bill seeks to address the same legislative gaps the previous Senate bill sought to address to ensure the institutionalized safeguarding of human rights in the country.

In view of the foregoing, early approval of this measure is earnestly sought.

34 of Appeals or the Supreme Court.

35

36 SEC. 14. *Scope of Legal and Preventive Measures. – In all cases under 37 investigation, the Commission may issue all legal measures as well as provisional 38 remedies, which shall include, but are not limited to the following:

- 39 a. Mandatory Protection Orders (MPOs) directing government security forces 40 and other government agencies or private institutions to provide specific 41 protection to victims of and witnesses to human rights violations;
- 42
- 43 b. Orders directed to government officers and private institutions and 44 organizations for the purpose of providing protection such as but not limited
45 to temporary shelter, and security arrangements;

- 1 c. Orders directed to government and private lawyers as counsels de officio to 2 ensure that the human rights of the victim are not further violated in 3 processes in which they shall participate; and
5 d. Mediation between parties on issues that can be subject to settlement.

7 In investigation cases, the Commission may issue preventive measures, which
8 shall include, but are not limited to the following:

- 10 a. Injunctive orders to prevent any member of the government's military or 11 police forces, as well as public officials or employees, or any person acting
12 under their control and supervision, from concealing, transferring, torturing,
13 or inflicting injury or abusing a person deprived of liberty.
14
15 b. Orders directing the government official or employee, or any person in 16 control of any places of detention or confinement officials to allow access to 17 persons deprived of liberty by his/her counsel, physician, psychologist,
18 priest, pastor, rabbi, imam, or any spiritual adviser and relatives. Places of 19 detention and confinement shall refer to any physical space, area or 20 structure, whether moving or stationary, permanent or temporary, where 21 deprivation of liberty is carried out, and which establishment, operation, and 22 maintenance of the same is punishable under Section 14(i) of Republic Act
23 No.9745 (Anti Torture Act of 2009);
24
25 c. Orders directing the government official or employee, or any person in 26 control of any places of detention or confinement to permit the inspection of 27 said premises;
28
29 d. Orders directing the transfer of the custodian of persons deprived of their 30 liberty and in danger of reprisal or retaliation of the latter's transfer due to 31 the filing of a complaint in connection with his/her detention of the alleged 32 victim and to take immediate measures to secure the safety of said person;
33
34 e. Orders restraining/prohibiting the respondent, his unit or command from 35 entering the immediate vicinity of the affected area or residence and from 36 searching the victim or his belongings unless in the exercise of a valid 37 search; and
38
39 f. General writs of injunction ordering respondent to refrain from committing 40 any and all acts that would tend to cause irreparable harm or have the

19 treatment and conditions of persons deprived of their liberty in places of 20 detention;
21
- 22 d. Submit to the President and other relevant authorities proposals and 23 observations concerning legislation relating to places of detention and the 24 treatment of persons deprived of their liberty;
25
- 26 e. Work, where appropriate, in cooperation or consultation with any person or 27 body, whether public or private, in connection with the discharge of any of 28 its functions under this Act and the Optional Protocol;
29
- 30 f. Maintain direct contact with the United Nations Sub-Committee on 31 Prevention of Torture and other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or 32 Punishment (SPT) to strengthen the capacity and mandate of the National 33 Preventive Mechanism for the prevention of torture and other cruel, 34 inhuman, or degrading treatment or punishment and the protection of 35 persons deprived of liberty;
36
- 37 g. Coordinate and strengthen cooperation with concerned government 38 authorities on their roles and commitment for the effective and full
39 implementation of the NPM through constructive dialogue and meaningful
40 interaction with relevant stakeholders;
41
- 42 h. Publicize information covered by its visitation of the matters mentioned in 43 paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (d) hereof, when circumstances so warrant, and
44 with due prudence: provided, that the NPM under its rules and regulations

1 may determine what information is confidential and may not be made public:
2 Provided, further, that any publicity issued by the Committee shall be
3 balanced, fair, and true. However, the NPM shall not publish personal data
4 relating to any person without the latter's express consent; and

- 5
6 i. Publish and disseminate an independent annual report including an annual
7 budget and expenditures report.

9 SEC. 19. Confidentiality. – Information collected by the National Preventive
10 Mechanism shall be confidential. No personal data shall be published without the 11 express consent of the individual concerned. However, the NPM may share case
12 reports and studies with Congress for purposes of legislation, provided that the 13 identities and other pieces of personal information of the persons concerned are 14 sufficiently concealed.
15

16 SEC. 20. Immunity. – No authority or official shall order, apply, permit, or 17 tolerate any sanction against any person or organization for having communicated to 18 the National Preventive Mechanism any information, and no such person or 19 organization shall be otherwise prejudiced in any way.
20

21 SEC. 21. Protection from Criminal Liability. –
22

- 23 a. No criminal, disciplinary, or administrative sanction shall be taken against 24 any person for having communicated, in good faith, any information to the 25 NPM or the Subcommittee.
26
27 b. Anything done, or purported to be done, in good faith, and in pursuance of 28 the functions and powers conferred under this Act or in respect of any
29 publication by or under the authority of the Committee of any report,
30 proceedings or any other matter under this Act shall not be a ground for 31 action, suit or other legal proceedings against the Committee or a member
32 or officer of the Committee.
33
34 c. Private Legal Assistance. – The Committee Members, Officers, and Staff of 35 the NPM are hereby authorized to engage the services of private lawyers or 36 extend counsel immediately upon receipt of court notice that a civil or 37 criminal action, suit or proceeding is filed against them. The lawyer's fee
38 shall be part of the indemnification package for the NPM Committee
39 Members, Officers, and Staff, subject to the provisions of Section 24 hereof.
40

41 SEC. 22. Indemnification of NPM Committee Members, Officers, and Staff. –
42 There shall be an indemnification package for the Committee Members, Officers, and 43 Staff, which may be in the form of free legal assistance, liability insurance, and other
44 forms of protection and indemnification for all costs and expenses reasonably incurred

1 by such persons in connection with any civil or criminal action, suit, or proceeding to
2 which they may be, or have been made a party by reason of the performance of their
3 functions or duties, unless they are finally adjudged in such action or proceeding to be
4 liable for gross negligence, misconduct or grave abuse of discretion.

6 SEC. 23. Imprescriptibility of Human Rights Violations. – The investigation of 7 human rights violations shall not be subject to any statute of limitations or prescriptive
8 period.
