

Education Graph Reading

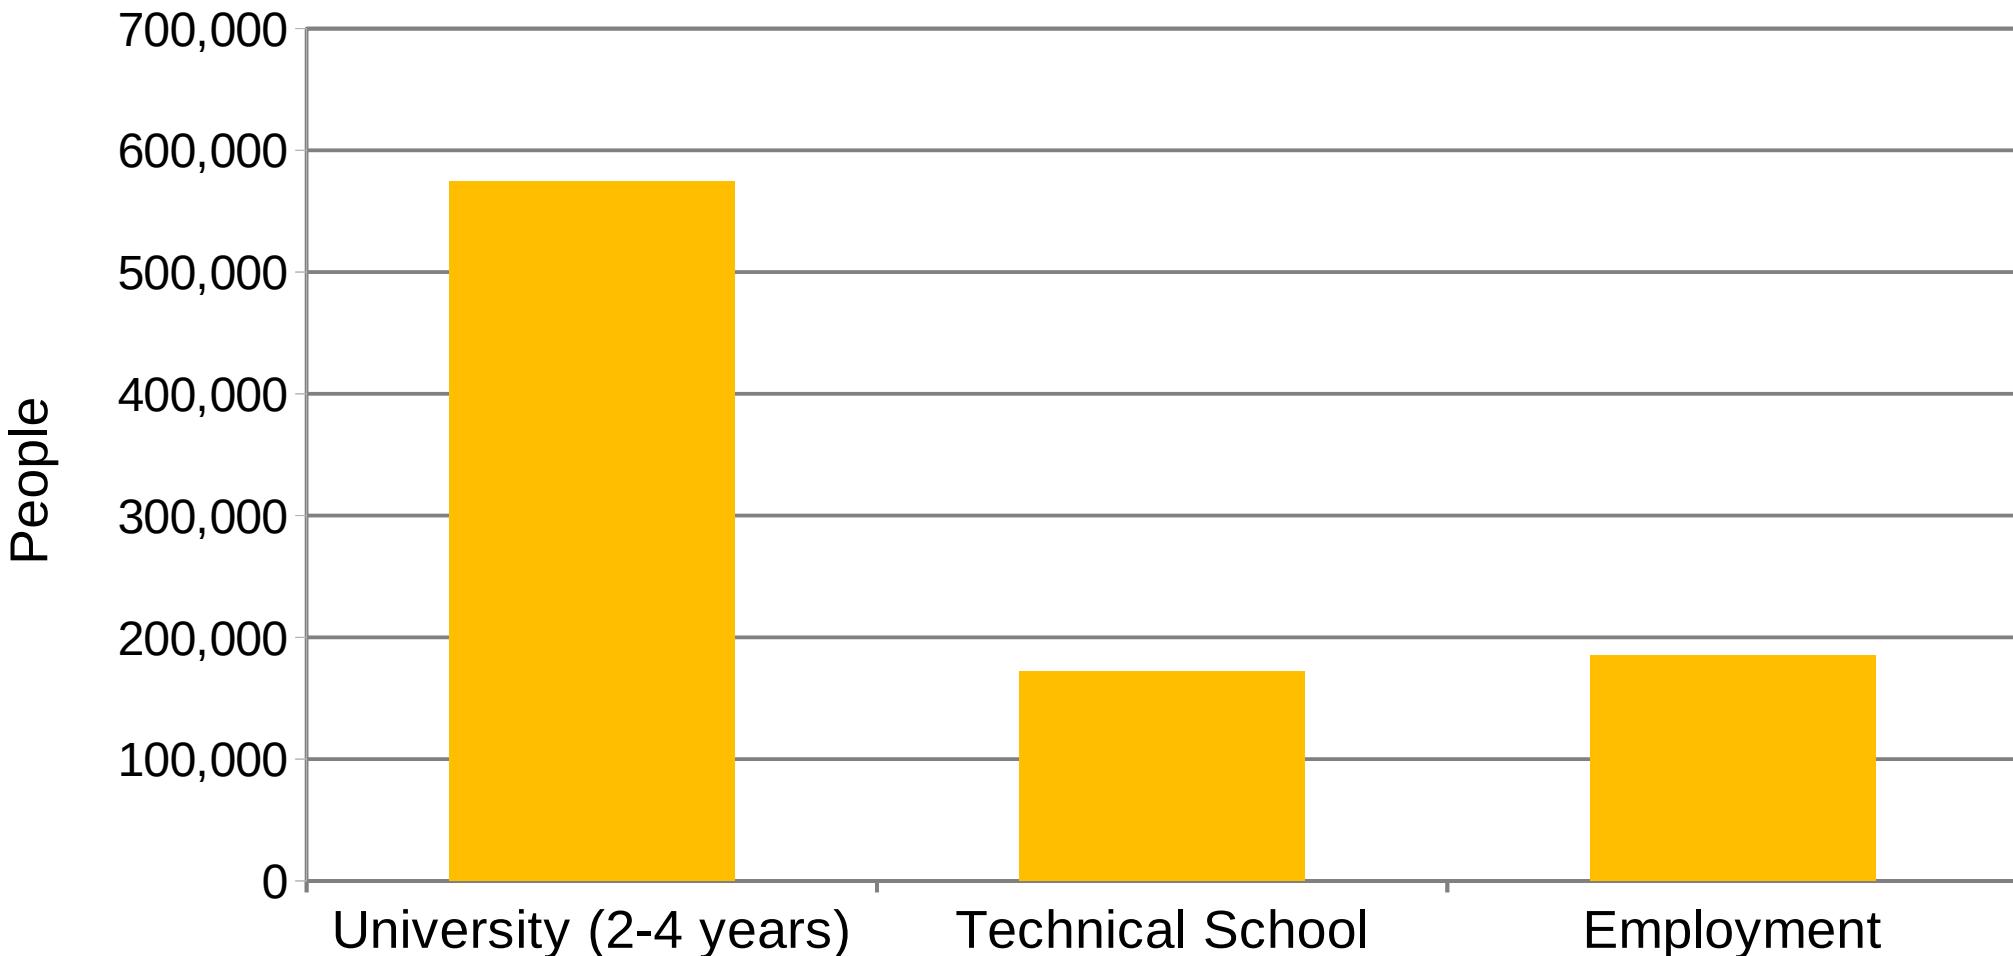

Look at each graph.
Circle the correct sentence.

High School Graduates in Japan (2019)

What students did after finishing high school

令和2年度学校基本調査 (MEXT)

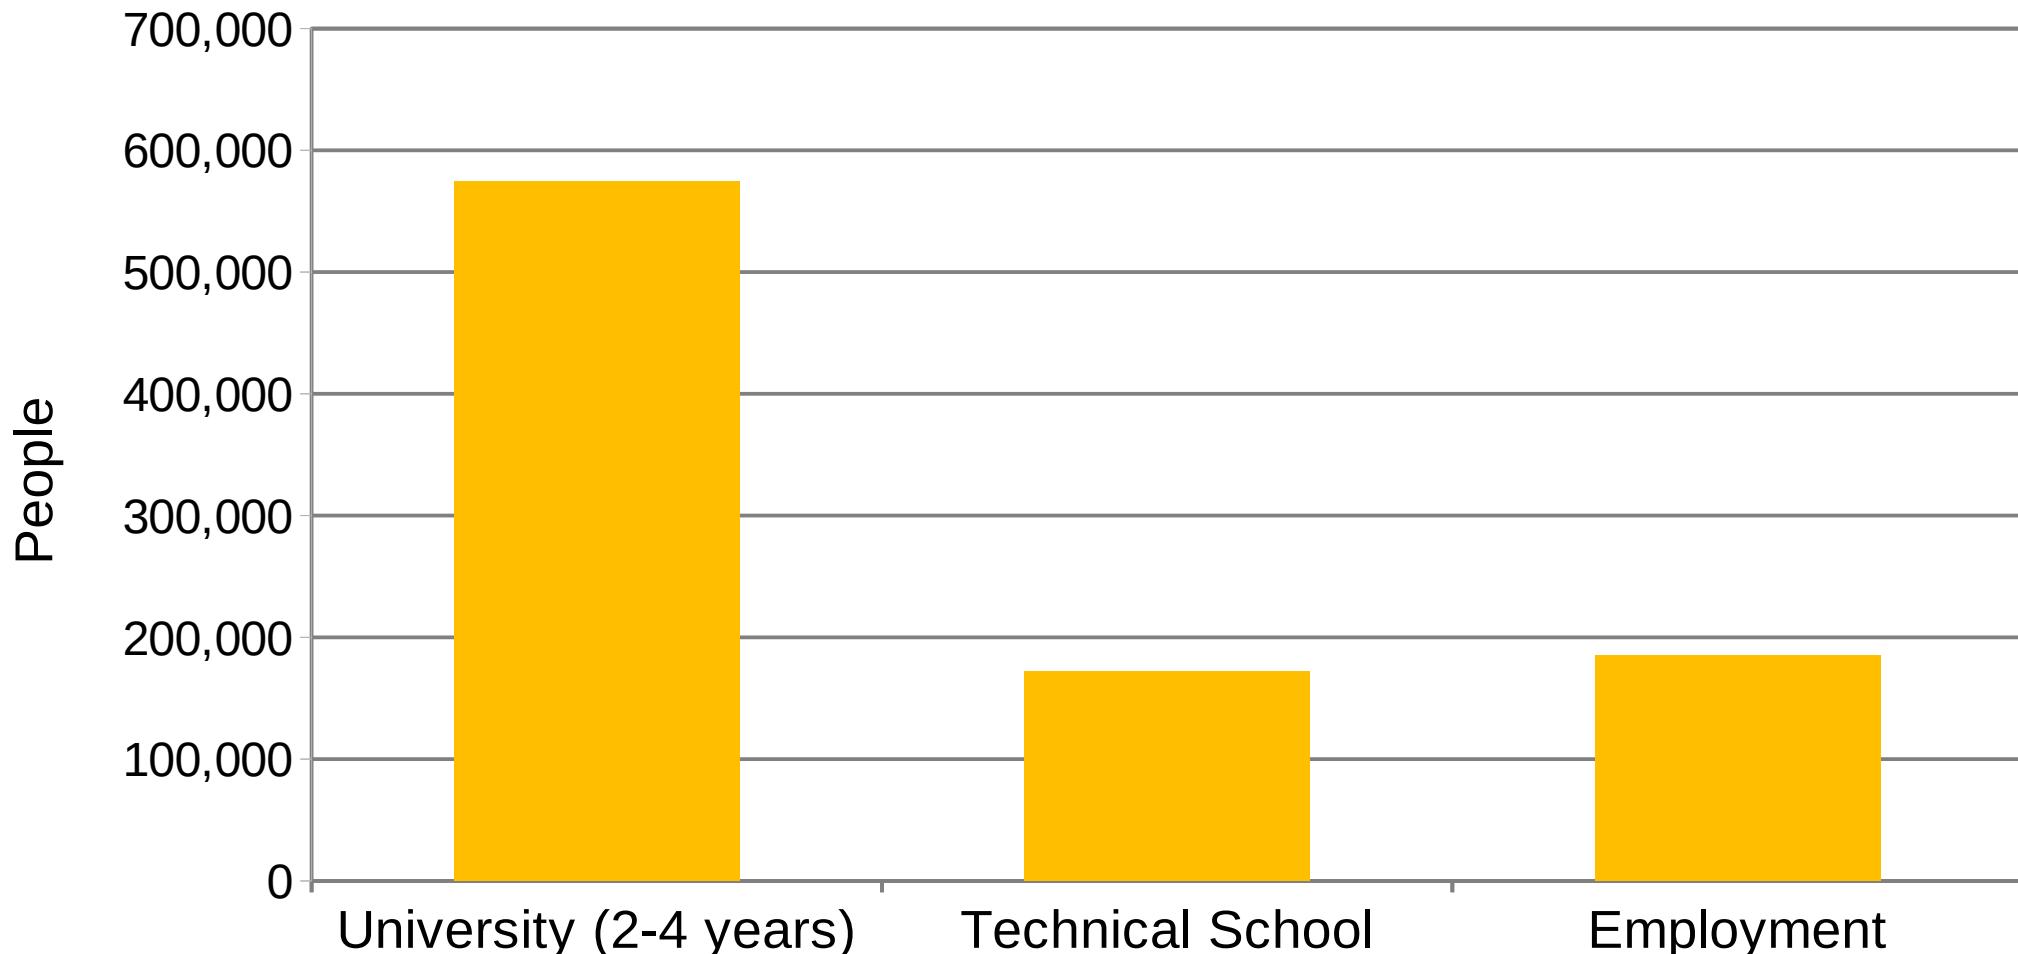

- a) This graph shows what people did after finishing high school.
- b) This graph shows what people did after starting high school.

High School Graduates in Japan (2019)

What students did after finishing high school

令和2年度学校基本調査 (MEXT)

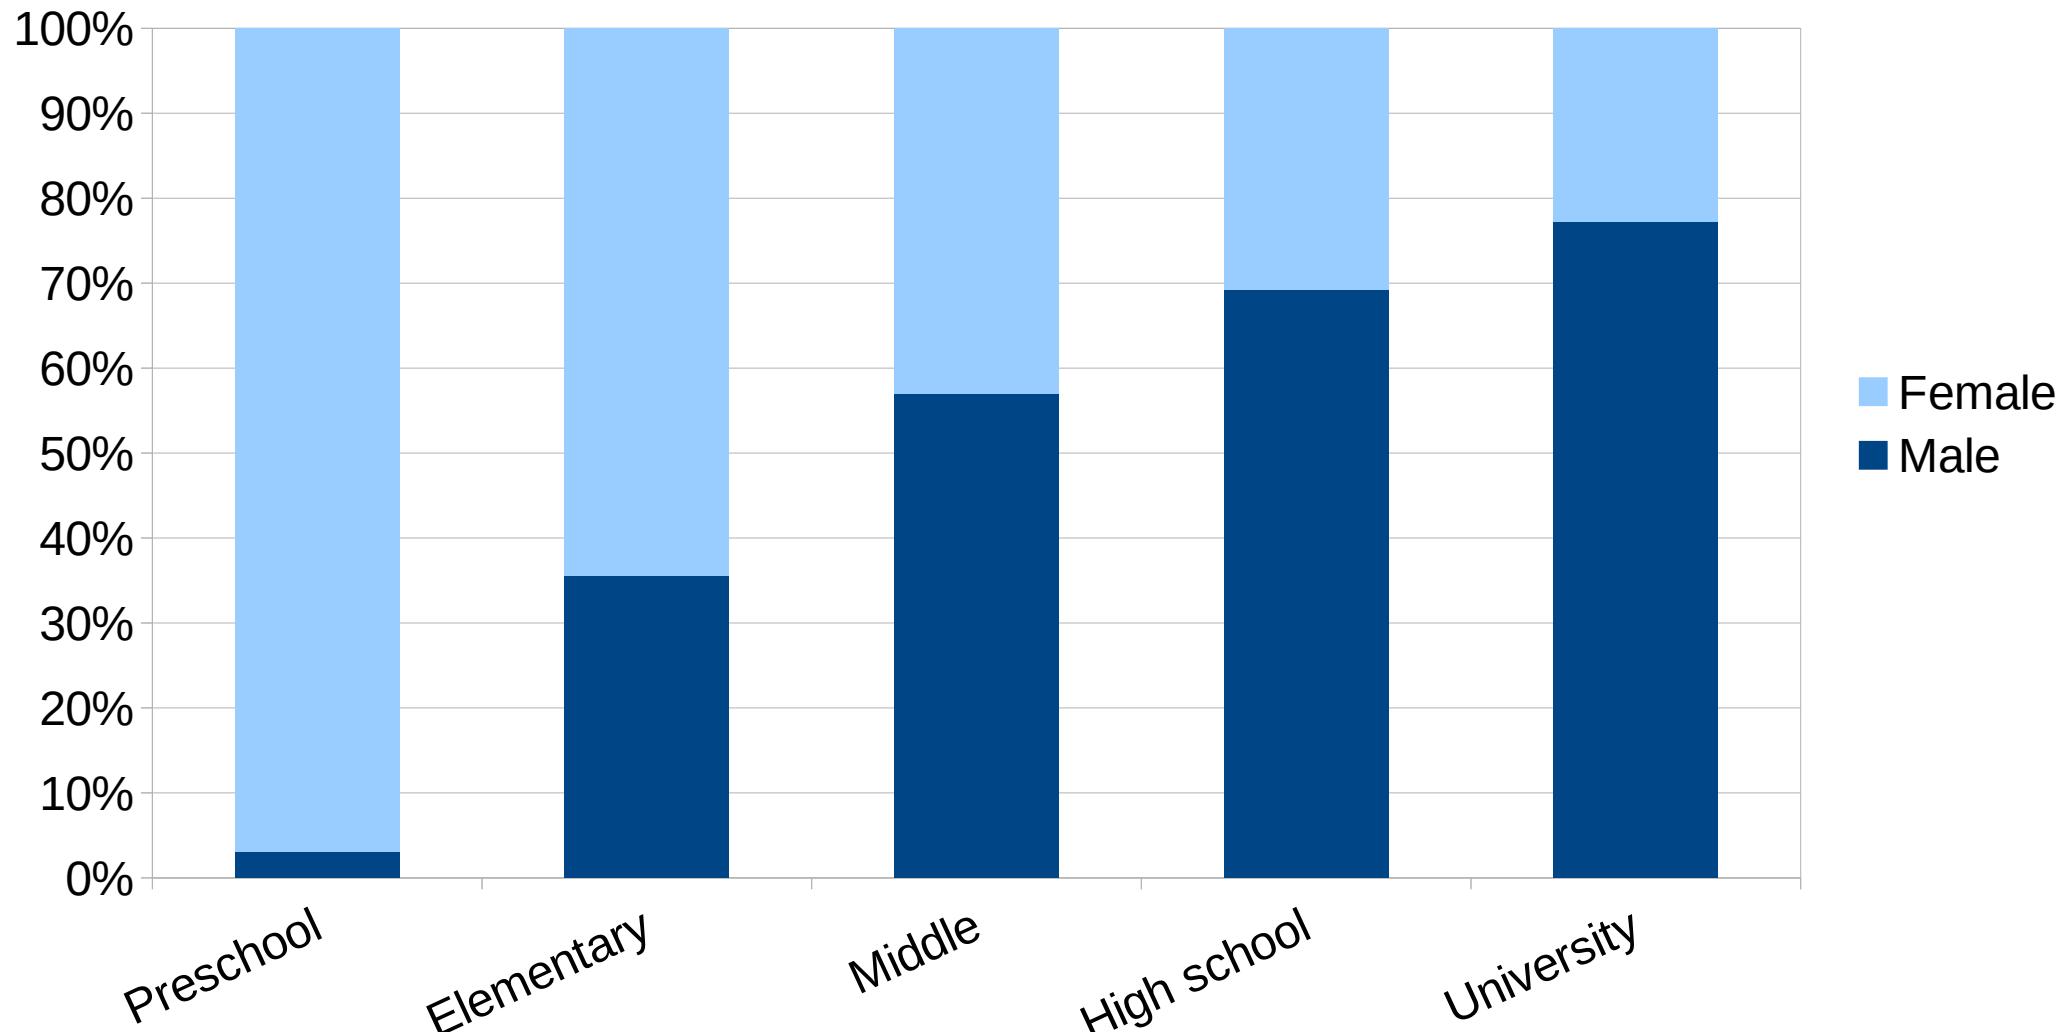

- a) More graduates got jobs than went to technical school.
- b) Less graduates got jobs than went to technical school.

Teacher Gender by Education Level

OECD: Japan 2019

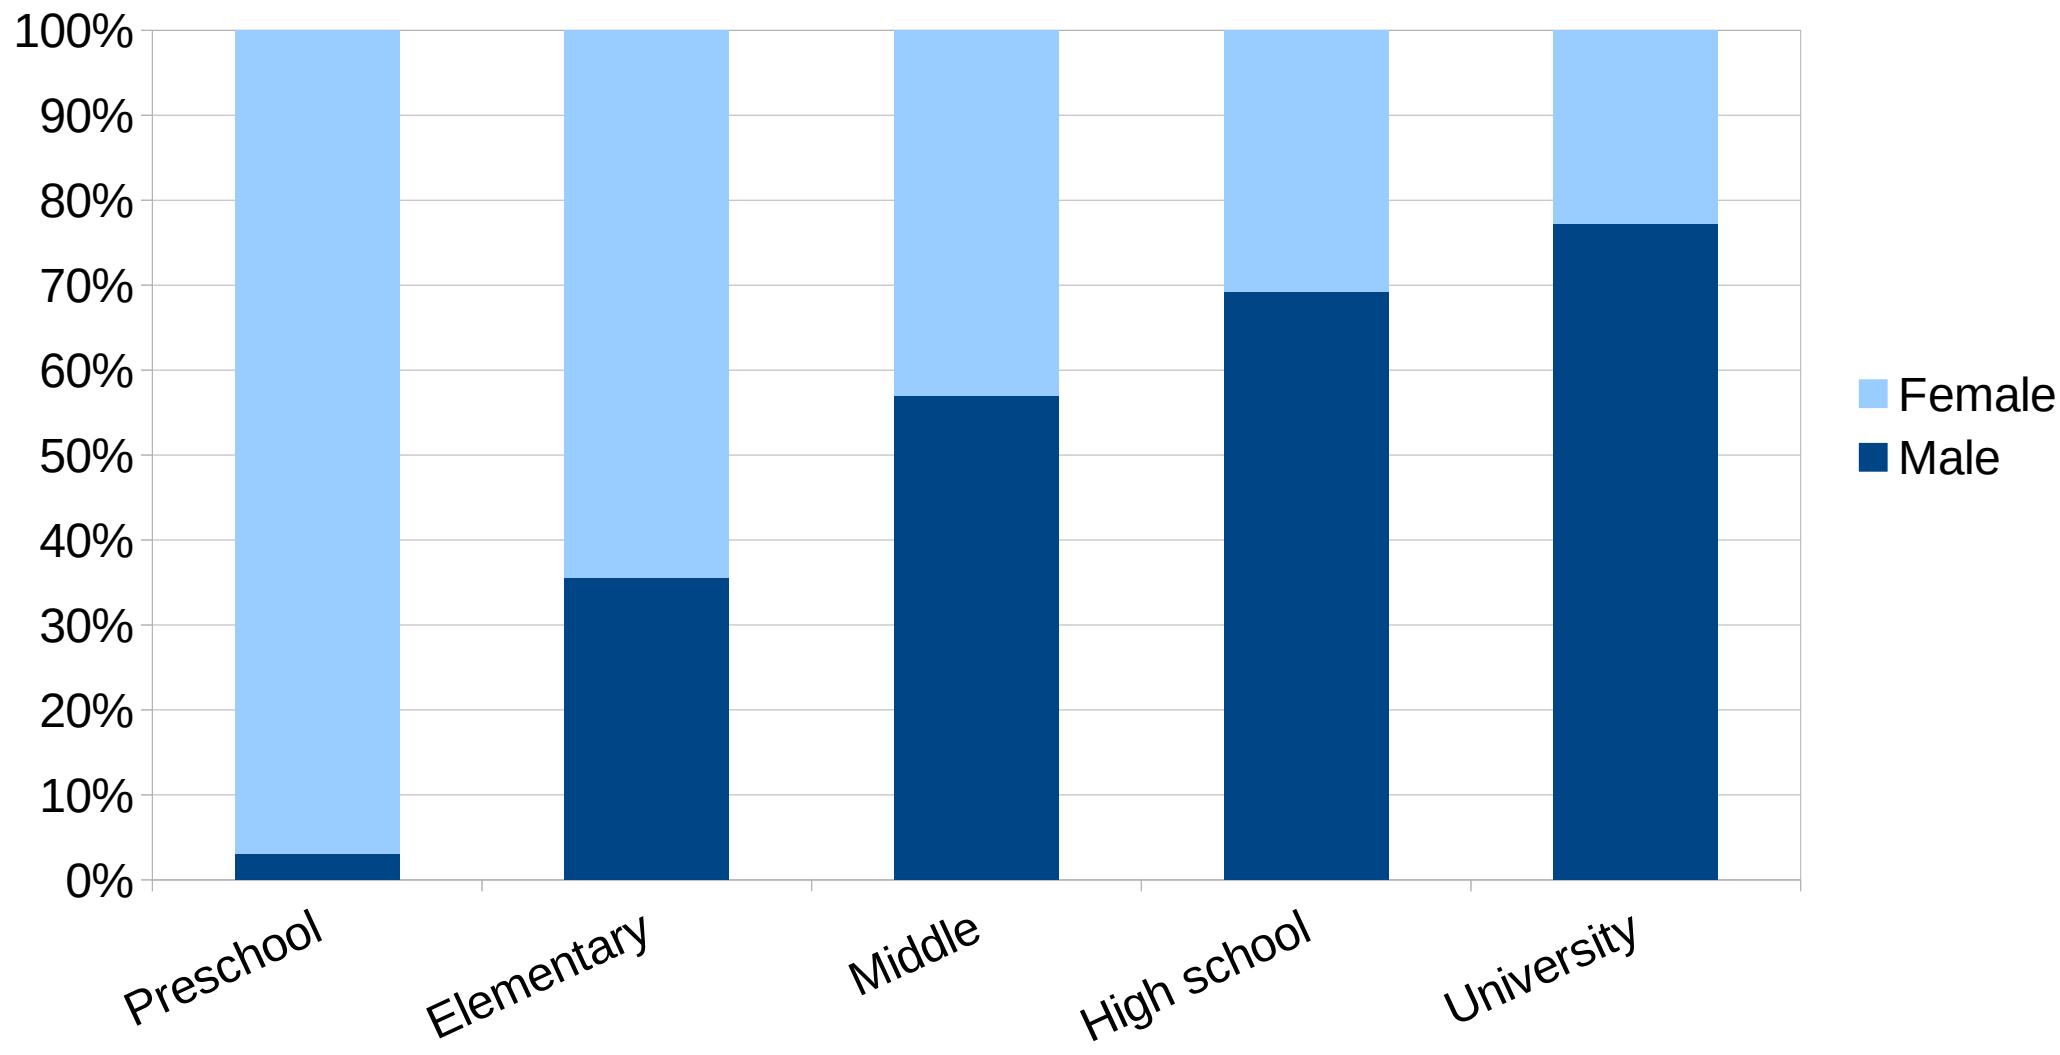

Source: Organization for Economic Cooperation & Development. Data from 2019. Retrieved and analyzed 2021.

- a) This graph was created in 2019.
- b) This graph was created in 2021.

Teacher Gender by Education Level

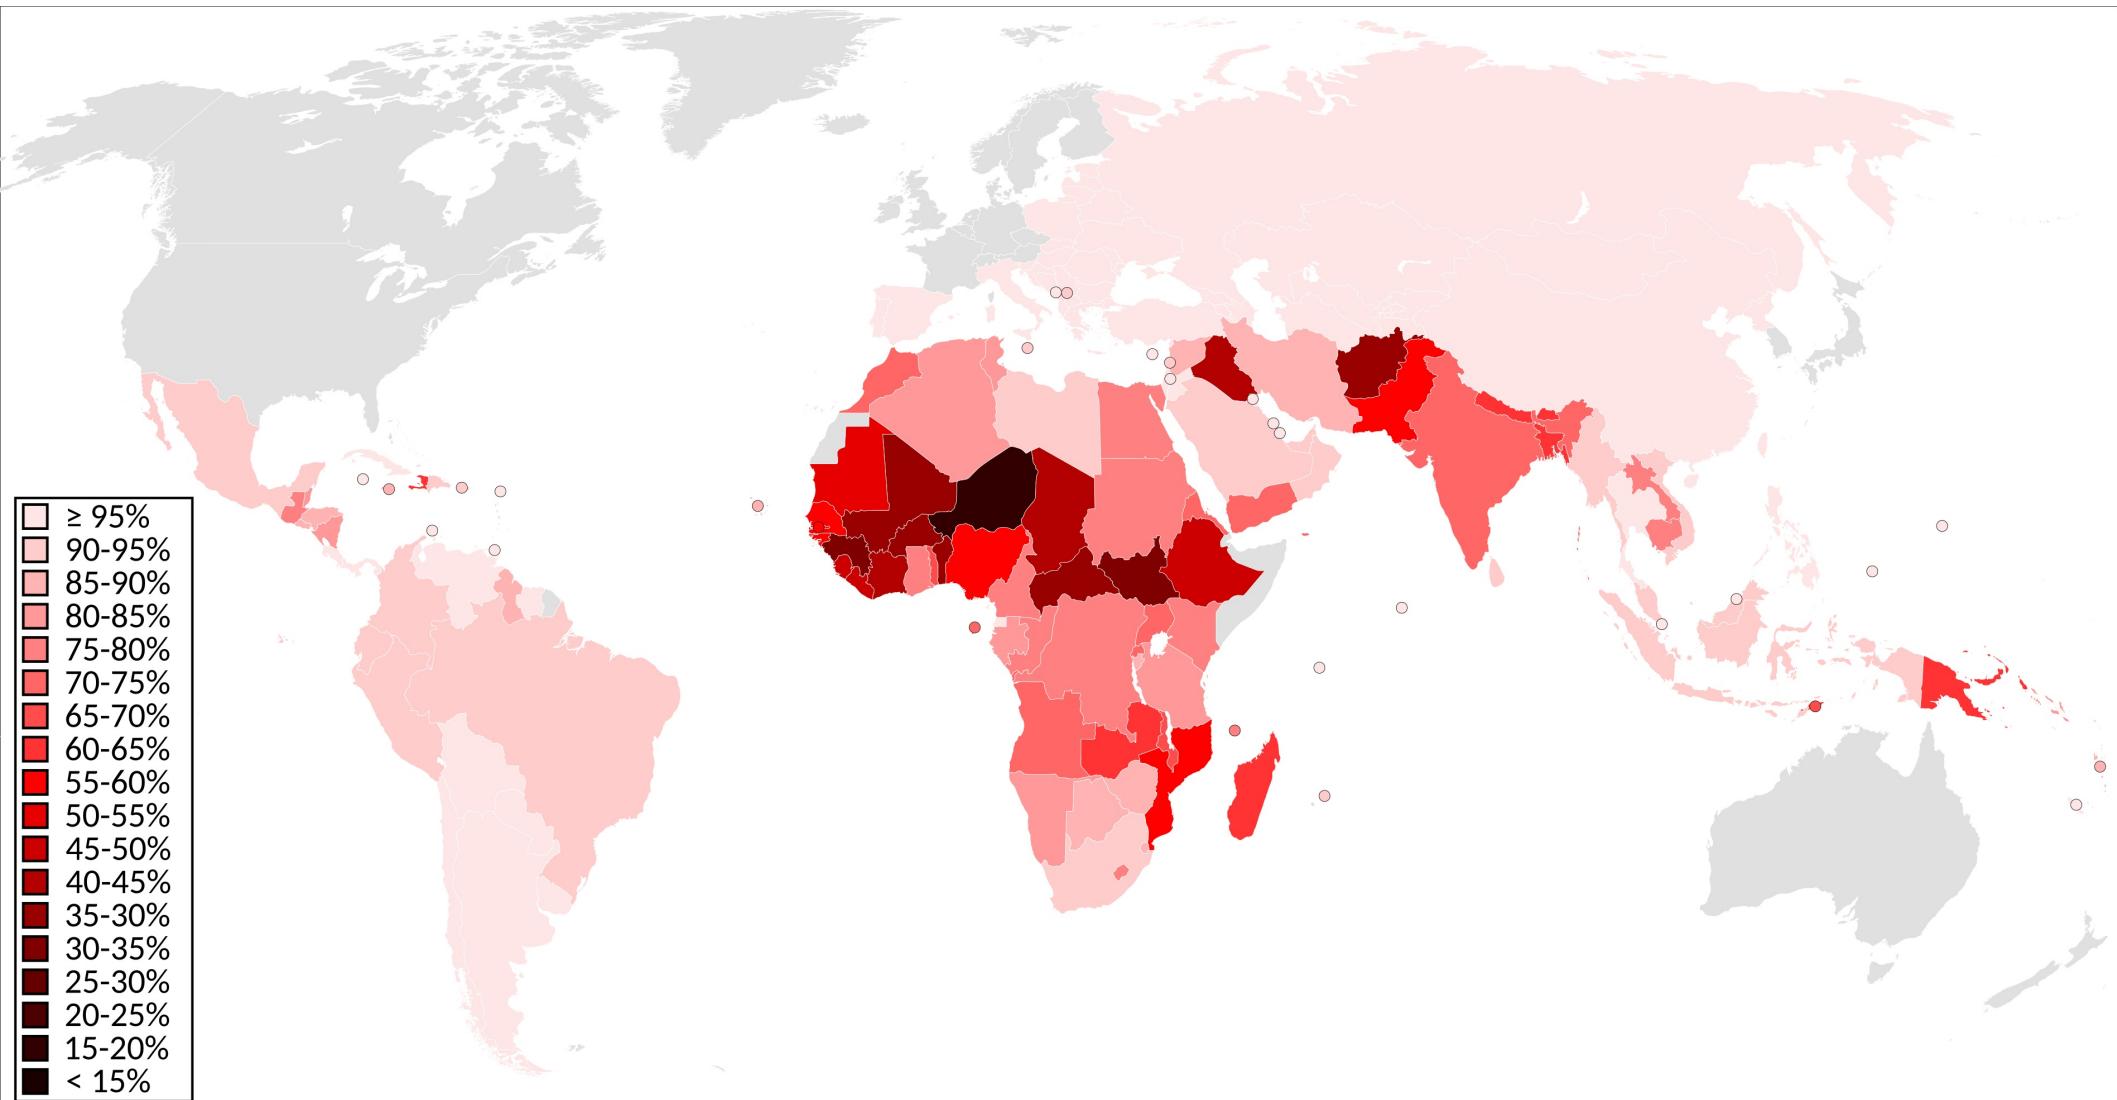

OECD: Japan 2019

Source: Organization for Economic Cooperation & Development. Data from 2019. Retrieved and analyzed 2021.

- a) More than half of middle school teachers are men.
- b) More than half of middle school teachers are women.

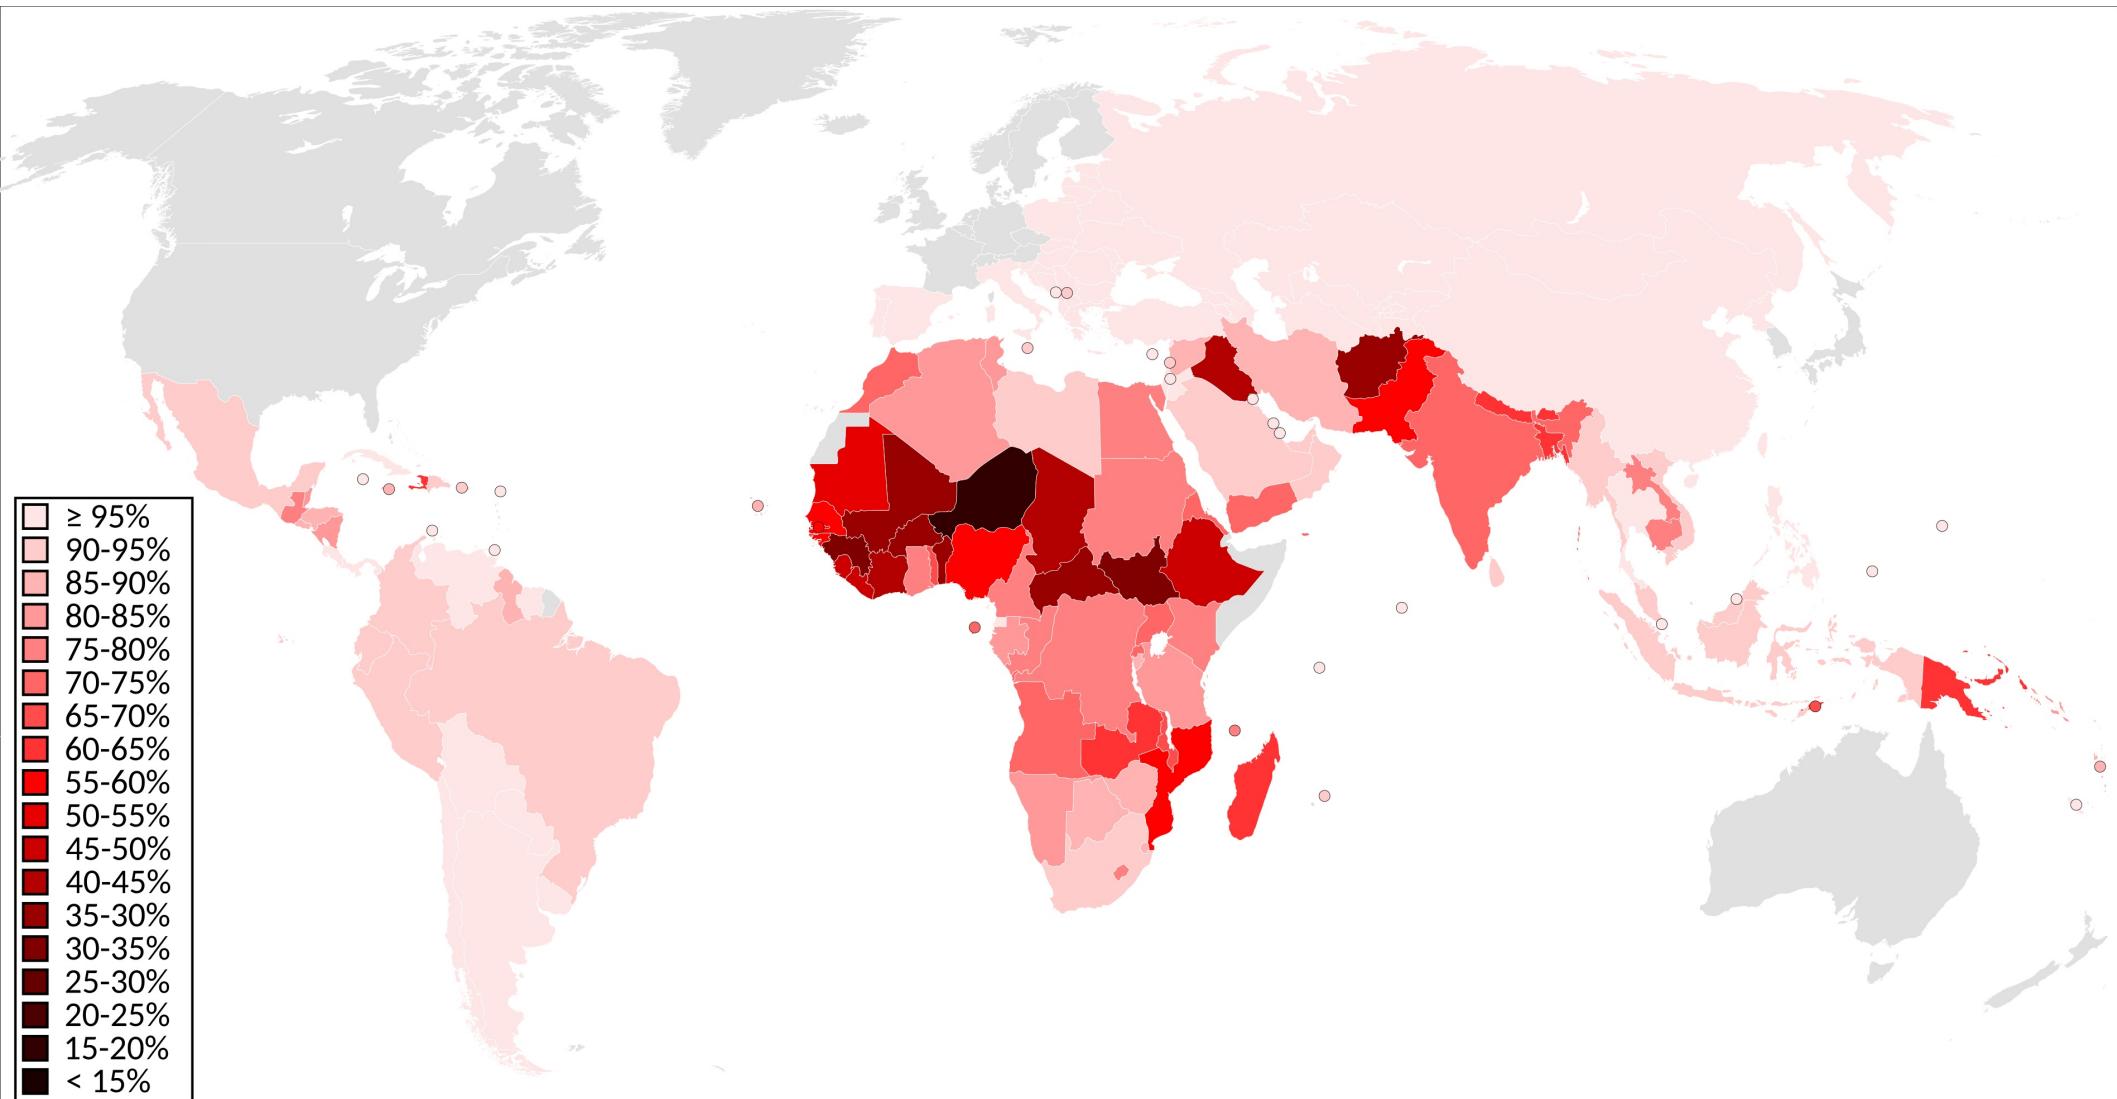

World Map of Countries by Literacy Rate

Source: UNESCO (2018) & Wikipedia: List of countries by literacy rate. Graph created by Jolly Janner. For countries in gray, no data is available.

- a) The lowest literacy rates are concentrated in Africa.
- b) The lowest literacy rates are concentrated in Asia.

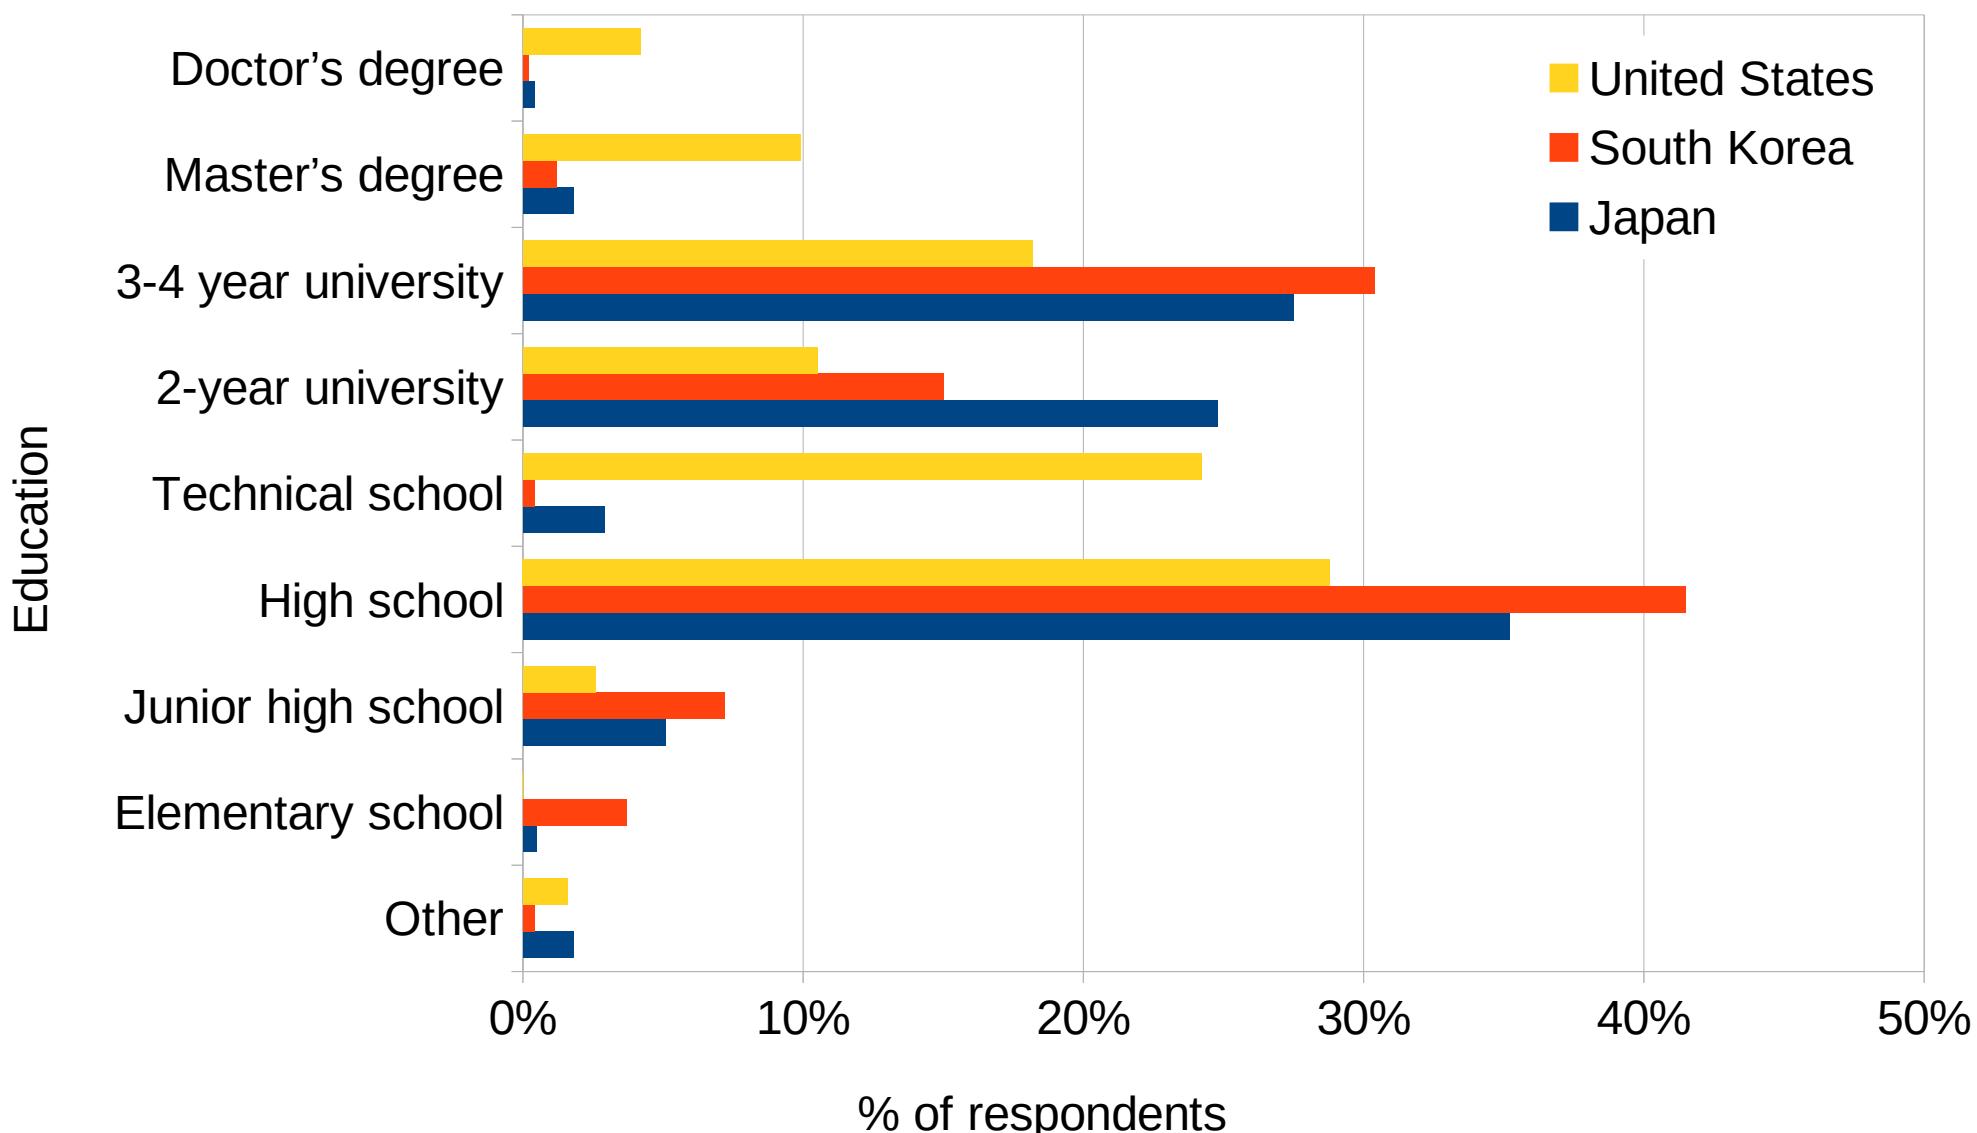

World Map of Countries by Literacy Rate

Source: UNESCO (2018) & Wikipedia: List of countries by literacy rate. Graph created by Jolly Janner. For countries in gray, no data is available.

- a) Russia has a high literacy rate.
- b) Russia has a low literacy rate.

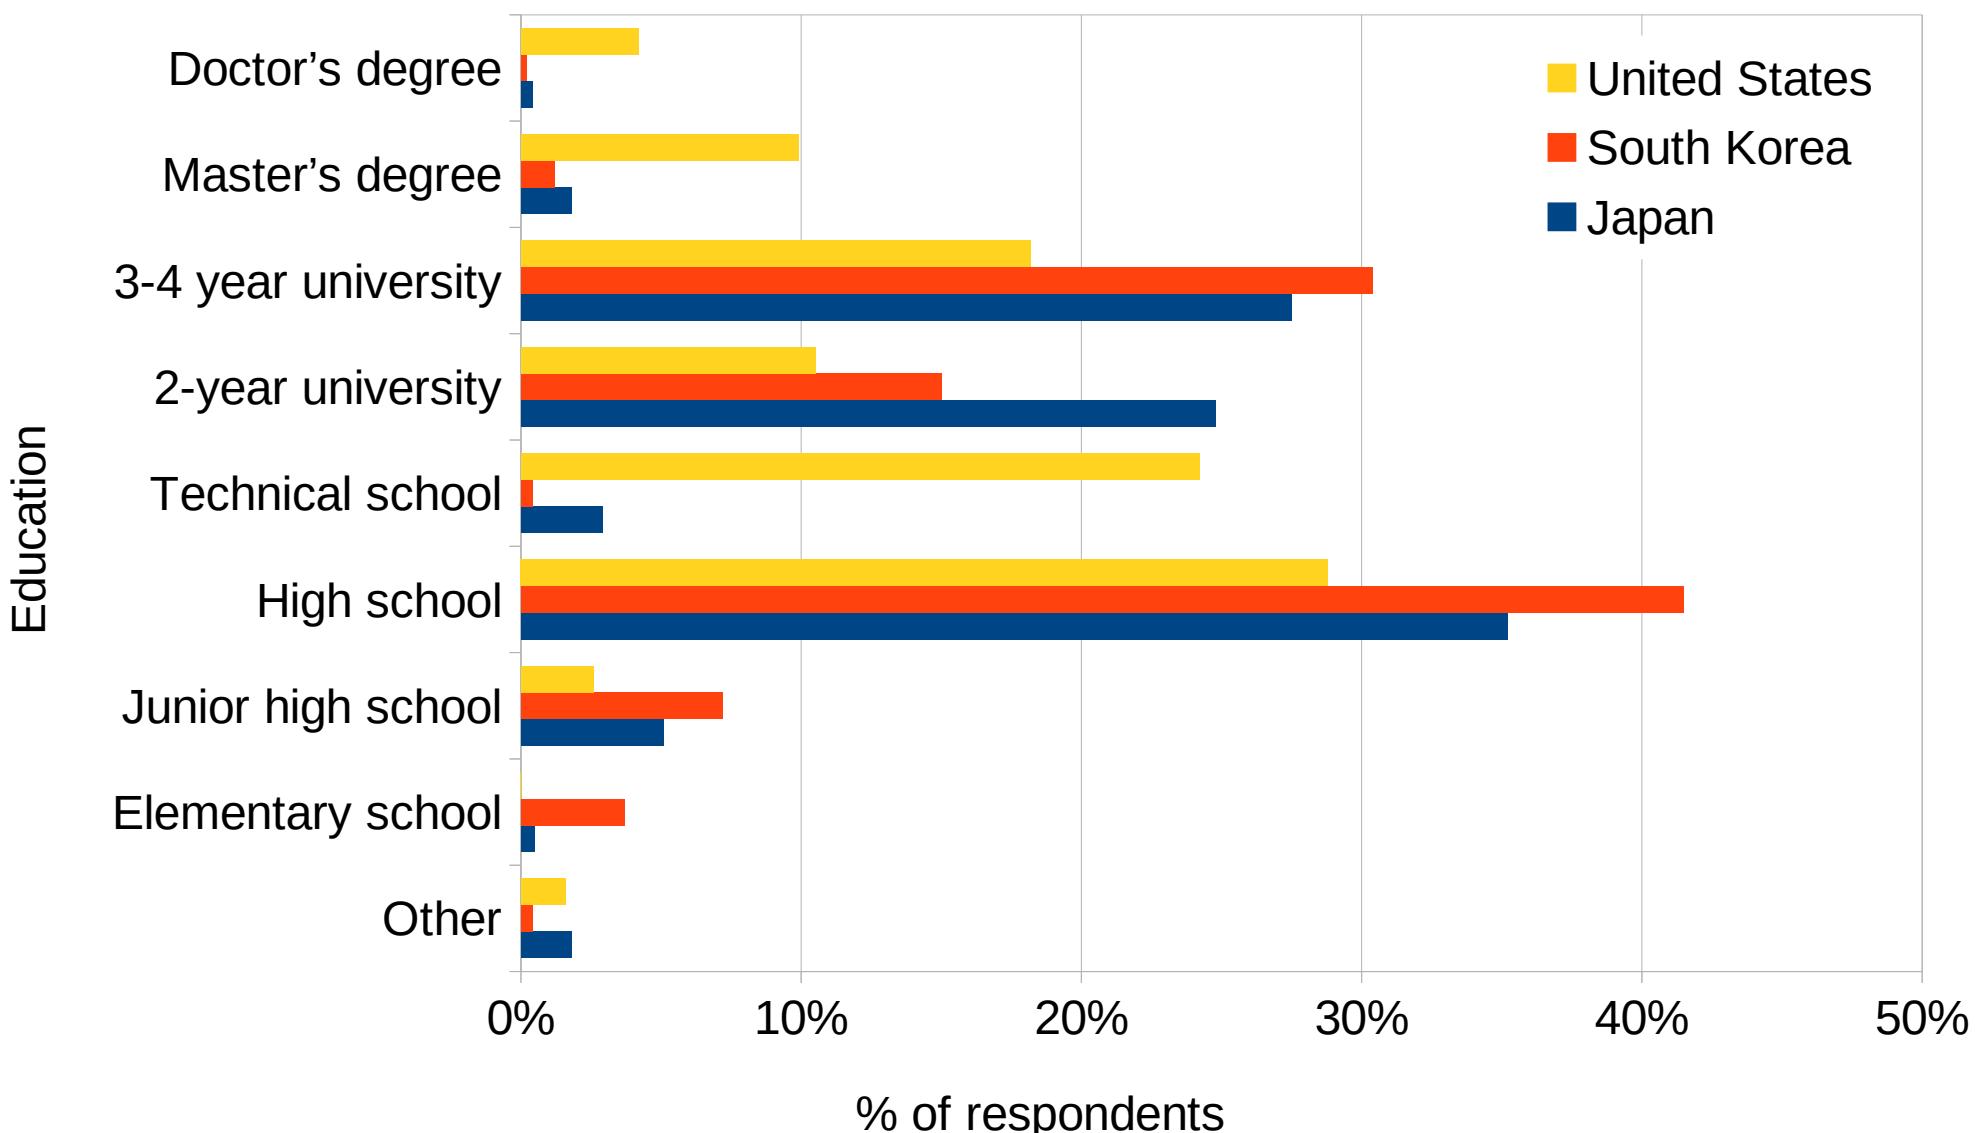

Highest Education Level

Source: WorldValuesSurvey. Selected sample: Japan 2019, South Korea 2018, USA 2017 (5194 people).

- a) This graph shows data from two countries in the world.
- b) This graph displays data from three different countries.

Highest Education Level

Source: WorldValuesSurvey. Selected sample: Japan 2019, South Korea 2018, USA 2017 (5194 people).

- a) The U.S. has relatively many master's degrees.
- b) South Korea has relatively many doctor's degrees.