Brought to you by MEA, the world's first Midlife Wisdom School.

● As Seen In:

MEA (Modern Elder Academy) offers science-backed workshops and online programs that provide people with the tools, practices, and support to navigate midlife challenges and thrive in the second half of life. Over 7,000+ alumni from 60 countries with 60 regional chapters around the world have attended our destination workshops and online programs to reimagine aging and create exciting and meaningful next chapters in midlife and beyond.

Our curriculum has been designed in collaboration with academics from Stanford, Harvard, UC Berkeley, and Yale, who have dedicated themselves to understanding modern midlife. Together we have developed and refined experiential tools and practices that combine the social science of longevity and the art of intentional living to empower people to curate a second half of life that's as joyful, exciting, and meaningful as it is long.
