Ship Construction

The Opus 12 tender is constructed using advanced Glass Reinforced Plastic (GRP) technology, which ensures a highly durable and low-maintenance vessel. Both the hull and the deck are crafted as one-piece molded structures, providing exceptional strength and integrity. This seamless construction method significantly enhances the boat's resistance to leaks and damage, making it robust and reliable over time. The use of GRP also offers excellent resistance to environmental factors such as UV rays, saltwater, and temperature fluctuations, ensuring the Opus 12 remains in excellent condition with minimal upkeep. The modern and sleek design of the Opus 12 not only adds to its visual appeal but also optimizes its performance on the water.
