OUTREACH

Our Outreach Team conducts direct outreach to over 3,000 people experiencing homelessness each year. The team goes to areas where high-impact camping exists and offers access to services including shelter, health support (medical, mental health, substance use), transportation, identification and benefits assistance, and housing. This intensive work requires daily engagement that can take weeks. Last year the team facilitated 63 people into treatment/detox programs, 149 people into transitional housing, and 50 people into permanent housing.

SHELTER

Transition Projects began 56 years ago sheltering 20 men in a hotel in Old Town. Today, we are proud to serve as the largest shelter provider in Oregon. Each night, individuals, couples, and their pets access a safe place to rest at one of our eight shelters located across Portland. As unsheltered homelessness continues to rise in our city, we remain committed to providing quality, comprehensive shelter services. Shelter guests access case management, health & wellness providers, nutritious meals, housing support, income development and employment services, and much more.

VETERANS SERVICES

Transition Projects supports individuals who have served in all branches of the military and their families, who are experiencing homelessness or are in imminent danger of homelessness. We help them find – and keep – affordable housing throughout Portland's metro area. Our Veterans Services team provides wraparound support to help veterans find meaningful employment, benefits, legal services access, health and wellness providers and more. Last year, over 1,100 households were supported by our Veterans Services team.

HOUSING

Transition Projects believes in housing first – safe, stable housing for those we serve is always the top priority. Independent housing encourages our participants to access many other services which help to ensure long-term stability and housing retention. Transition Projects operates several housing programs, including one of the few transgender and non-binary permanent supportive housing programs in the region; and a housing program for young, single, Black mothers and their children. Each year, over 800 households access permanent housing with the support of our housing teams.
